TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1. 1737.

No. 500.

Dublin, Jan. 22.

HURSDAY last being the Anniversary of the Birth-Day of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the same was observed here with all the Demonstrations of Joy. The Morning was usher'd in with ringing of Bells; the Flags were display'd at the Castle and St.

Warburgh's Church; and at Noon the Government received the Compliments of the Nobility and Gentry at the Castle; the great Guns at the Barracks were fired three Rounds, which were as often answered by the small Arms; and at Night the Ladies were entertained with the Comedy of Love for Love, at the Theatre Royal in Aungier's-street, where the following Prologue was spoken on the happy Occasion. The whole concluded with Bonfires and Illuminations, &c.

The same Day the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, gave a most elegant Entertainment to their Excellencies the Lords Justices, and several others of the Nobility and Gentry of this City, at the Mayoralty House in Dawson-street: And an excellent Speech was made on the Day in our University; by Lewis Burroughs, B. A.

PROLOGUE to the Prince of WALES'S Birth-Day, spoken by Mr. Joseph Eltrington.

THO' GEORGE'S Virtues all our Souls engage,
The Pride, and the Example of the Age;
Our Thoughts, tho' ceaseless, his Perfection fill,
For Gratitude renews the Idea still;
Yet for one Day in each revolving Year,
The Monarch but obliquely will revere;
Think what his Councils and his Hand have done,
As we behold his Image in his Son.

Frederick, while Fame and Virtue link'd, he Views
His Father's Footsteps, carefully pursues;
Aliter, in both, the same Desire we find,
To raise the Happiness of human Kind.
Such Moderation scarce was never known;
Such Condescension, Stranger to a Throne;
Such Contenance, as well secures the Land
From licens'd Ruffians, or the Oppressor's Hand.

Such Intrepidity as late was seen,
When 'midst the Tempest, quiet and serene,
The Ocean's Monarch, like the Ocean's God,
Sublimely on the Billows calmly rode;
Watch'd from the Perils of the angry Deep,
By his eternal Guard that knows not Sleep;
Back to wear an Earthly Crown again,
And longer bless the Nations with his Reign.

But chief to thee, O Frederick! was he sent,
To teach thee all the Arts of Government;
To point the Cares that lurk around a Throne,
To show thee all the Burthens of a Crown;
To form thy Youth, till gracious and divine,
The perfect Image of your Sire you shine.
So when the sloping Sun-beams shape their Way,
To some fair Stream that brightens with the Ray,
The reflected Sight should meet the Eyes,
To view an Orb as bright as in the Skies.
The tortur'd Sight is dazzl'd with the Beam,
And a new Sun appears beneath the Stream.

Alluding to the late Storm in which his Majesty

following PROLOGUE was also spoken on the Birth-Day of the Princess of WALES.

NO Night no common Heroine does engage,
The Attention of the Pit, or Awe the Stage;
Queen in Verse, no Princess of the Blain,
At Rules imaginary Worlds of Scene,
To your Time or tributary Praise;
In Augusta, Heroine of our Days.
Royal Source, from which thro' Heaven there
Springs,

Train of Heroes, and a Race of Kings.
The happy Prince in such a Consort blest;
The happy Princess filling Frederick's Breast;

And happiest Subjects, who, in these have seen,
Your brightest Hope, your future King and Queen.
How blest these Isles beneath Augusta's Sway,
Where Love, as well as Duty, says, Obey.
So mild she is, so exquisitely Good,
That had she not been born of Royal Blood,
Her Virtues might have rais'd her to a Throne,
And blest'd the Man with whom she'd share a Crown.
To her all beauteous Heaven bestow'd a Share
Of Wisdom, far above her Sex's Sphere;
Made her the Pride and Boast of Woman-kind;
Fair in her Person, fairer in her Mind.
As does in burnish'd Gold the Diamond blaze,
The Diamond richer than its wealthy Case.
When she shall Reign, grant Heaven a length of Days,

To bless these Subject Isles with Wealth and Peace:
And may, to propagate the Royal Line,
Augusta prove another CAROLINE.

As did the Rev. Mr. Alexander Ker, Chaplain to the Garrison of the Castle.

There having been a great Disturbance made on Saturday last at Covent Garden Playhouse, the Persons concerned in it were Yesterday examin'd before Col. De Veil, and it appeared upon the Oath of several Persons, that one Francis Cooke, Coachman to Mr. Rich, the Master of that Playhouse, who had pick'd up a Woman, did, in a very impudent, fawcy Manner, assault the Centinel who had the Care of his Royal Highness's Chair in the Playhouse Passage; and would force into the said Chair the Woman he had so pick'd up, to make, as he was pleas'd to call it, a Bawdy-house of the Prince's Chair, which the Centinel refusing to suffer, he struck him several Blows over the Head with his Whip, and in the same Manner served three Centinels more: This Behaviour of his, occasioned so great a Disturbance and Mob, that the Captain of the Guard had much ado to quell the Disturbance, and prevent the Mob from breaking into the Playhouse, where his Royal Highness the Prince and Princess of Wales were; and to prevent it, the Captain having order'd double Centinels at the Iron Gate, and at the other End of the Playhouse Passage he gave positive Directions to let nobody into the Passage till the Disorder was quell'd; but one William Carr, a Constable, notwithstanding the Centinels acquainting him with those Orders, would, by Force and Violence, with his Servant Joshua Drake, enter the said Passage, and did assault and strike the Centinels, and encourage, aid and abet the Mob that was assembled there, to stone and pelt the said Centinels on their Post, which was accordingly done. The said Francis Cooke and Will. Carr, are bound over in several Recognizances to the next General Sessions of the Peace to be held for the County of Middlesex at Hicks's Hall, to answer those Offences; and the said Joshua Drake (Carr's Servant) refusing to find Sureties, was, by Col. An immediate and never-failing CURE for Deafness, Thickness of Hearing, Noise or Pain in the Ears, &c.

BY a noble Chymical Preparation, the most excellent Medicine for this Purpose that ever was known, which so far exceeds any thing ever yet published, made Use of, that there is no Comparison; its Virtues beyond Expression, and can not be truly known but by Experience: Words come short of its just Praise.

It is a certain, and, as it were, an instant Cure for Deafness, Thickness of Hearing, Noise or Pain in the Ears, from whatever Cause, or of ever so long standing, having cured Numbers of Persons of both Sexes, and all Ages, that have been in a manner totally deaf, after all other Means and Medicines external and internal, by Advice, and also by Publication have failed, with the greatest Ease and Safety, and to the utmost Satisfaction and Wonder; for,

In a peculiar Manner it strengthens, softens, and loosens the Drum of the Ear, which by being cried, or struck, often the first, and chief Cause of every Complaint of Deafness, or of Noise, or Pain in the Ears, &c. To remedy which, this noble Medicine is a true Specifick, that never fails perfectly to cure all possibly curable Cases, after all Means of Medicine have utterly failed; which is more than can be said of any other Thing in the whole World besides itself: It cures Cold in the Head, or any Hurt by congealed Matter in the Ears, it instantly cures.

It is sold for 3 s. 6 d. each Bottle, by the Author's Appointment, at Mr. Richards's Tinsmith, the Sign of the Black Horse and Star, in Fleet-street, near Fleet-bridge, and no where else in England.
